Available Jobs in the Oil Fab Industry.

We have extensive experience helping people get into the South African oil industry. In saying that we are a quick fix. We are not a recruitment agency and it is not possible to guarantee employment, however if you follow our comprehensive recommendations and advice, you will maximise your employment prospects.

We have been assisting people for eight years to get into the oil industry, and we offer expert guidance the best way for you to get a job. We assess your background, your work experience, your working preferences and location, and from this determine the best way for you to get a job.

There are many reasons to work in the oil industry:

- Excellent money – oil industry workers easily earn one of the highest average salaries around
- Great work roasters – offshore workers work in rotations, meaning that you spend much of the year on holiday
- Challenging work – if you are tired of the 9-5 routine or want a complete change in career, the oil industry offers a demanding environment to work in, but huge opportunities, earnings and also career progression
- International job opportunities – if you want to work abroad there are a large number of these roles available. And employers will cover your transports costs from your hometown, to the rig and back

If you are serious about wanting to get into the oil industry, it is essential you do it the right way so you don't jeopardise your future employment. The next step is to get your pre-employment assessment underway today. Times are tough at the moment – you need to get this underway now, before the available jobs are filled.
